Why Not Have A Goal In Life To Help People Stay Healthy.

Easier said than done. Yeh, you think it's easy to do the right thing – exercise, eat the right foods, get plenty of sleep, drink lots of water. All the things you've been told would benefit you. But how many of us have swayed from the temptations that we face each day? Sweet drinks? High-caloric fast foods? Salt?

That's what motivates Jennifer Shelton of Jennifer Shelton Balance in her daily routines.

A young farm girl from Kansas, Jennifer has become a young fitness guru with an agenda. She started teaching exercise classes in college, and began a personal quest running marathons since the year 2000.

She told how hard it is to do well in the al training industry. Jennifer worked for Prairie Life for about 6 months, and found she could develop her own programs. That's what lead her to start her own personal training business.

One thing that is really near and dear to her heart is being the Coach for Team in Training. This all benefits the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society. Team in Training includes many fellow Prospectors and other friends. Setting goals like a half-marathon, a marathon, or bicycling in the Century ride (100 miles around Lake Tahoe) are milestones in a person's life that you will never forget.

What sets Jennifer apart from other trainers is her approach to programs tailored to each individual. She refuses to do the same workouts everyday, keeping variety a big part of her regimen. Yoga, the blending of mind, body, and spirit, has been beneficial to all that she has exposed it to, and has changed her life.

Her clients are mostly in their 50's and 60's, and some like the convenience of her coming to your home or business, wherever you need her to be. Very flexible. And she works one-on-one or in small groups giving you great attention.

And Jennifer told us that her biggest area of expansion is remote exercise and yoga classes, offered online with some universities or through her website, and out of state clients via email.

Thanks Jennifer for making us think outside the box to improve our health and well-being, and how we think about our lives.

RADON TESTERS.....

Ed Hutchison of Frechin Pest Control and Radon Services will have three Radon Testers that he will be bringing to the meeting this Thursday. He will be passing them out to whoever wants to use them to test for radon, but he is asking that when returned, you write a $50 check payable to the Leukemia Society as a donation. Any questions, you can ask Ed on Thursday.

STICKY FINGERS PROJECT

A Benefit for the Head Start of Shawnee Mission, KS
Beverly Williamson has initiated a fundraiser for the Head Start organization to raise badly needed school supplies for this year. You can add a few dollars onto your invoice from DocInk, or just send a donation to the Sticky Fingers Project. Beverly will have all the info this Thursday. Or if you cannot make the meeting, call her to discuss how you can make a difference.
