

Take The Time to Make Sure You're Prepared When It Comes to Your Personal and Business Finances.

We never fail to realize what a taxing time of year it is. OK. Pun intended. But you all know, this is when we all get stressed out, knowing we have to gather all of our bank statements, receipts, check registers and bills to get them ready to do what - figure how much money we owe Uncle Sam (and rarely how much Uncle Sam owes us). It's stressful, nerve-racking, makes your stomach turn upside down. But, it doesn't have to be.

You need someone that can help ease the burden cast upon us. Someone that is detail-oriented and is familiar with the rules and regulations. Thank goodness we have Mike Mellott of MEM Accounting and Tax Service to be ready at our beckon call.

Mike has worked with figures nearly all his life. The companies he served are major corporations that enlisted his skills to assist in budgeting, analyzing, and deciphering information that helped determine their successes and failures. He has since taken that skill set to another level, making it possible for individuals and small businesses be able to utilize his expertise and knowledge to help with their tax preparations. He's been doing this since 2009, the accounting and tax service. Mike deals mostly with individual households, some single, others married with extended families. There are simple solutions and some much more complicated. That's what keeps Mike motivated daily. Never a dull moment.

He tends to end up visiting his clients in their home or business, and he says that he charges by the job (according to his mood that day). We learned from his speech that he enjoys math – and the task of analyzing results and gaining success at that. He is also a very organized person and enjoys “counting things”. Doesn't matter, he just likes numbers!! If you played “Office” as a kid, you know what your skill set entails.

Mike showed us several personality types and concluded that he felt he was more of an introvert. He says he has compassion for others while providing a logical plan to accomplish your goals.

The names of the three tunnels dug by prisoners of war in the movie The Great Escape were Tom, Dick, and Harry.

Accounting is the language of business. It is the measure of how you do from day to day, month to month. There is Financial Accounting (more for businesses, utilizing reports and guides about how successful they are). Management Accounting helps managers make decisions using future reports and budgets. There is Auditing that helps verify assertions made by others. They are trying to confirm or disclaim opinions in a financial statement. And finally, there's Tax accounting that includes the actual making of tax payments or completing tax returns for business or personal use.

Mike tries to use business tax information systems that would help make his work so much better. It's best to just Make It Simple!! Here it is best to keep your business information and accounts separate from your personal taxes.

Mike says that an educated client is the best client. This holds so true for many in our fields.

Mike has shown strength and resilience in picking his fights and seeing best who to take on as a new client.

And when not playing with someone else's dollars, he is taking care of his lovely slice of heaven we all call and deck and backyard. It is wonderful to hear about his many accomplishments, and to see how proud he is of his family.

Mike serves the Club in many ways, most recently on its Board. We are always welcomed by a cheerful smile, and a thought for the day. What is so great – you never know what to expect and that's the way Mike likes it. Thanks for being a friend, and mentor, and a guardian of all things financial. We are all better because of your expertise and foresight. Keep counting!
