

Sometimes We Find Our Purpose in Life By Accident or Happenstance.

Yes, life is strange sometimes. It can send you signals when you least expect it. You can be doing something you believe to be just a task that needs to be completed, and somehow realize that it could be your life's calling.

Such was the case for Doug Airey of Doug Airey Homecare. And home care was IT!! But the road that lead there was interesting in and of itself. You see, Doug comes from a family instilling a strong work ethic like many of us. His father worked for the FBI and showed him the importance of honesty and abiding by the law at a young age. Doug realized that he wanted many things at his young age, and in order to get or have them, he became resourceful and worked to earn what was needed.

Doug has lived an exciting and diverse life, working in restaurants at a young age, to working the Alaskan pipeline during its construction. And he has owned a bowling alley and a hair salon (he hated working on Saturdays).

When he moved back to KC after his mother's passing and his Dad retiring, he thought he was not doing enough to keep busy, and also realized others were investing in rental real estate. So he went out and acquired several properties. We liked the extra cash flow from them, but despised the maintenance and upkeep costs they required.

Here is where he took it upon himself, and a lot of homeowners do, to try and fix what he could, learning along the way. (No Home Depots or Lowe's stores back then). Talking to those that did work like that, he gradually picked up tips and tricks that made home repair a breeze. And he liked doing it. Several friends knew of the work he did and asked him to come fix a few things for them. That was the "light bulb" moment - he realized he might be able to monetize this. After several months, he knew that this was his true calling.

Doug now works out of his clean white van. Between the tools he carries with him in this van, and what he has at home, there are over 8000 different tools that he maintains to do different tasks.

He takes care of someone's list of little items that need repairing. He did that for years. He has since expanded his realm of expertise and skill levels to be able to remodel kitchens, bathrooms, basements - you name it.

The food of the Greek Gods was called Ambrosia.

Sometimes We Find Our Purpose in Life By Accident or Happenstance.

He has a person that helps him when he takes on these more complex projects.

And he is a perfectionist. He wants to make sure that what he does for you is better than before he started. He is meticulous when it comes to paint, edging, and finishing details.

And he has built his business acumen from mostly referrals of satisfied clients. Many of them are Prospectors. If you own a home or have rental property, and don't have the necessary skills to do a good job yourself (or maybe have tried doing it but failed), then Doug is your guy!

Each job is a new adventure; you never know what you will find behind a shower wall, or above a ceiling.

So if you have been thinking about updating your bath or kitchen, or have an emergency arise, you should keep Doug's number handy. Thank you Doug for being there when needed by many of us.
