

PROSPECTORS BREAKFAST CLUB

When Stuff Goes Haywire and You Know Better Than Fixing It Yourself, You Better Call a Professional.

Well you know you've heard this question asked a few times before. Do you own a home or a business? Most of us do for sure. Ever have stuff that goes wrong? Maybe your significant other is getting tired of the paint color in the kitchen or dining room? Or there's a leak in the bathtub that dripping water into the first floor and the drywall needs replacing? Or maybe just a fresh remodel of the kitchen or basement? Now what do you do?

You better be calling Doug Airey of Doug Airey Home Care. Doug has the capabilities and tools to handle nearly every crisis or demand for making your home or business a better place to live or work.

Doug has what we might call on-the-job training when it comes to his skill set. But he has always been proficient at working all things mechanical. His genes have been a big asset, learning from his parents and siblings. All that has made Doug a better businessperson, and a more qualified advisor when it comes to jobs big or small.

Doug has stated he has earned a large chunk of his earnings both from those in the Club itself as well as the many referrals that have been given to him from outside the Club.

Doug has led a fascinating life at best, living in California, Alaska, and Kansas City, always leading an interesting and abundant life wherever he lands. He has owned beauty salons, worked the Alaskan pipeline, day care centers, and owned and managed a bowling alley.

The first one to call Ed Hutchison (816-616-6138) now gets $15 gift certificate for tacos at Fuzzy's either location; just seeing if you read the newsletter.

So what brought him back to KC? When his Mother passed away, he decided it was important to come back and be with his Father. His Dad worked for a few more years before his retirement.

Doug was great with tools and when friends of the family needed help fixing stuff, the family recommended Doug. That's when after a few months he was getting calls to fix a lot of stuff, he realized maybe he could make a business out of this. That is how his business began.

He likes what he does because he loves solving people's problems and issues. Every morning begins a new day – he gets to experience something new each day. He had become a problem solver for hundreds of clients in the greater KC area.

Doug tries to be prepared for almost any task or emergency he may be called for. His van is packed with the necessary equipment and the parts needed for making the job quick and pain free. And if not, he has access to major parts distributors or hardware chains where he can source materials. We all know that is a huge commitment on Doug's part, but it makes so much difference when the need arises. And whenever he begins a job, he takes special care in finding out about a client's pets and watches out for them when working.

A great referral for Doug is anyone who owns a home they live in, or as an investment property owner, or as a business owner. You all need some of the services Doug provides at some point in your ownership.

So make the time to look around your home, get out a piece of paper, and start making your punch list of what needs fixing; what needs paint; what needs tightening. A few screws and bolts and a coat of paint could do wonders. Thanks Doug for being there when needed by those of us that know the great service you provide.
