Each of us that own a business or is in a posture of making decisions on who is hired or fired knows how hard it is to find quality employees, workers who are committed to a job well done.

Sure, you could post your jobs on Linked In, Craigslist, or ask for referrals from fellow business owners. Or you could think smart, and get help from someone who has a fast track to qualified employees. And thank goodness we have Matt Phar of Paydayz Payroll and Human Resource Solutions on the prowl.

Matt has been involved in payroll and staffing since learning that several big players essentially owned the marketplace, and there was room for small players to grow. What drives him daily is the power to truly make a difference to the companies whom he does their payrolls, and also getting his clients hunting for a job an interview and hopefully a job – that is where he shines.

He started slow, but grew after meeting his wife, Kathy, who become the engine that helped motivate Matt to think bigger. But he continued to tell us his energies are focused first and foremost on family, and business second (he could spend two days a week running errands if he had to). It is his kids, and his dogs and cats that have become the center of his life. They are a family of strong faith and balance. It is what drives him to new heights each and every day.

Matt has over 100 payroll clients who range in size from one person to like 250 employees each. He has become focused in light industrial placements. They do such varied duties and writing payroll checks, and keep track of time clock management as well as accounts payable and receivables.

He currently has a salesperson who handles a lot of this for him.

Matt has started spending more time with his staffing solutions companies. The pride of taking someone who is not working and finding them a great position in a good company is what drives his success. He told us his passion is in his people.

Word spread from Minnesota when a friend of a client heard this company complaining of just the issues Matt was taking care of in Kansas City A phone call, and soon after a trip to Minnesota netted him a new office there. Since then there are now 8 offices in 5 states, 37 employees working for him, with bigger plans ahead.

Taking someone who is out on their luck, find them a good paying steady job that allows them to eventually rent an apartment and get them on their feet, that is what drives Matt today. His passion is now in the people he serves.

His biggest challenge he said is finding qualified people to place. It is the worst in 20 years. So, if you know someone who is using the “big guys” for payroll, Matt says he knows he can do a better job for them.

Think about who you know outside Prospectors running a business and needing someone to help them be able to focus on their day-to-day duties and not the “little things”. Give Matt a call and he’ll take it from there.

Thanks Matt for all you do for those that need it most.
