

Learning about a great new venue in Johnson County

Last week we flipped our times in order to have an After Hours event at the Johnson County Art & Heritage Center on Metcalf (the old King Louie bowling alley).

It was a great turnout and we enjoyed appetizers and got to see this brand new facility and all it had to offer – now the new home to the Johnson County Museum, several rentable meeting rooms, a dance and exercise room where they hold lessons, exercise classes and Tea Dances, and the most impressive was the 350 seat theatre where lots of shows and entertainers have a great space to perform and share their talents. All in all, it was a nice introduction to this wonderful addition to JoCo’s set of venues.

Afterwards, some headed to Coach’s because it was the night over 50 restaurants were donating a percentage of their sales to a fund to help support all the employees of Coach’s affected by the recent floods.

What a great Thursday spent sharing amongst ourselves and celebrating a great cause.

See you back at Deer Creek this coming Thursday for a few weeks.

Special Note: As we go to publication today, we hope all are OK with the deluge of rain we received last night. If anyone needs help or referrals for people that can help, please post on Facebook at Inside PBC, or send the editor an email for a blast to all. Stay safe.....
