

Move Your Stuff Around, Change Your Life !!

So when you heard our talk last week was on the subject of Feng Shui, what did you think? Truthfully – did you even have a clue? Some of you did – the majority of you not so much.

So Feng Shui - (in Chinese thought) is a system of laws considered to govern spatial arrangement and orientation in relation to the flow of energy. Or put more simply - the way your house or office or business is built or the way that you arrange objects that affects your success, health, and happiness. There – now you get it, right?

Whew – no worries, because if you were there last week, Robyn Stevens of Robyn Stevens Feng Shui made it “crystal” clear. (More on this later). So suffice it to say to us – she is the “Queen of Feng Shui”. She took us on a journey to help us boost energy around us, reduce stress, find a way to map your home, apartment, office, or business to find what to change, and help us manage the weird and bizarre making our inner energy reach new heights.

Feng Shui has been around thousands of years, dating back to very early Chinese lore. She began with energy and the Mouth of Chi. Every place has a Chi – this represented by your front door of your home or the entry to your business. All things flow through the mouth of Chi. Now if there's any clutter around, this will block or at least stagnate Chi. If let's say – you are stuck in an unsuccessful career, if you have money troubles, you find your personal relationships more than challenging, or your home does not energize you, then something needs to be done to change these negative energies. Where is the space being blocked in your home?

Then taking a look at how things are arranged or laid out can help reduce stress levels also. Feng Shui is the science of harmonizing and balancing your space. Believe it or not, most of us are living in a space we really don't want to be in. Robyn says by making the necessary changes you can get reenergized and it then becomes how you live while you are there that will make all the difference.

And everything counts- it needs to be clean and clutter free. The colors you use will dictate the strengths of energy around you; the size and placement of furniture, the number and places art are located, and how it is incorporated into the floor plan all having something to do with energy flow. If your home or business is cluttered, chances are your mind is cluttered as well.

So Robyn then showed us the next step in learning about Feng Shui – the mapping of your home or office. She showed us a chart called a Bagua map (see Page 3) – it is an arrangement of 9 different categories represented in your space. Transfer those areas onto your floor plan.

Taking a sketch of your floor plan (if you draw one out now) – you could be able to lay the areas represented on a Bagua map and see what part of your home falls into that area. If you don't have what's being told to you that should be there, then changes are ahead!

Robyn made this wonderful FREE offer to everyone – take and draw YOUR floor plan on a piece of paper – either your home or office, send it to her, and she will do the layout and show you what basic things you can do to have Feng Shui make your life better and more livable, and less stressful.

Robyn went on to tell us the heart of each of our homes – where prosperity lies - is the kitchen. And again you can't deal with Feng Shui if there are disturbances. Like – do you have lots of container lids stacked up and not with their containers – a bad mess? This is a bit of the clutter she spoke about. You have to deal with it. Maybe take a look and start with your refrigerator! Yikes! Maybe something easier???

Looking at the Bagua map, each of your strengths of energy has as its own specific personality and color and shape. For example, the front of your house covers your career, the skills you have and helpfulness as Chi enters, and the energy flows towards the kitchen, the heart of your home where fire is located in her chart.

Different areas also lend themselves to prosperity, fame, love, family, health and children's activities. Together you will see these different factors unfold as your energy shifts when you take action making your Chi stronger.

There are so many factors which come into play, it is too hard to cover everything at breakfast. So if you've heard something that sparks an interest, it's no obligation to ask Robyn to explain more over a cup of Joe, or have a meeting to see what she can suggest after taking a look at the world around YOU.

There is such a great resource here in our group that will guide you and explain it to you in an understandable and easy way. She made it all "crystal clear" at the end of her presentation, giving each of us a stone called Citrine which promotes joy and happiness and attracts prosperity and abundance. Keep it close by in your pocket or purse, and see how it will enrich your life.

So give Robyn a call and see what lies ahead. Thanks Robyn for helping us feel the energy and see the light that is in our future.
